Summary: Wrap-Up Session

Participants were asked to present their biggest take-away from this workshop, and additionally to suggest two things they would like to do differently in their country/city in the respective field, based on the lessons learned in the workshop.

Key take-away messages can be summarized as follows:

- all of participants appreciated the content of the workshop and found the selected topics of high relevance for their work;
- most of the local governments in developing countries still don’t have sufficient knowledge and capacity for implementation of instruments such as LBF, LR and LMA.
- All of Korean cases have been taken as best practices and were highly appreciated, especially those related to LBF, LR and Land valuation, but also the ICT solutions;
- networking among the participants in the future is more than welcome, most of the participants expressed their willingness to continue to share.
- the lessons learned will be immediately shared with co-workers within the departments and agencies. Some of the practices could be applied in the projects that are under way (Master plans under elaboration, as in Cambodia, or in Bogota, e.g.).
- the best way for replicating good practices is through conducting the pilot project (Paraguay)
- lessons learned will give additional impulse to the projects that are already being implemented (e.g. Vietnam)
- more workshops of the same type would be appreciated.

Some of the ideas how to organize the transfer of knowledge:

- capacity building for stakeholders,
- trainings for government officials,
- knowledge products for dissemination
- financial support
- technical assistance.
